Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Sugar Cane and Beet: An Object Lesson The statistics have been brought up to date, and so have the brief accounts of the various producing countries. The technical progress of the industry has consisted chiefly in the increased size of the factories and machinery. Improvements in the construction and use of the machinery continue to be evolved as time goes on, but do not develop anything sufficiently new to call for special notice in this elementary treatise. The only strikingly new feature is the extension of the system of producing white sugar direct from the cane juice and the perfecting of its methods. By white sugar is here meant fine, dry grocery sugar of the highest quality and whiteness, which will keep for any length of time without deteriorating. No cane sugar factory can produce such sugar without perfection in the arrangement of the necessary machinery, great skill and care on the part of the managers and workmen, and the carrying out of the process by methods recognized as most successful. This was comparatively easy in the case of the beetroot sugar industry; with cane juice greater care and skill are absolutely essential. It remains to be seen how far tropical management and labour will succeed in this new undertaking. Several new books of very high class have appeared since the first edition of this little handbook.
