Most of the English translation of the New Testament contain words such as holy, sanctify, holiness and sanctification in reference to the God, Jesus Christ and the Spirit of the God, and also referring to those called out and sent out by the God. The translated word holy is often used to describe temple and places where the presence of the God and also His dwelling place. There are hardly any writing detailing the meaning and significance of holy, sanctify, holiness, sanctification by Christian authors according to the New Testament scriptures. Words such as holy and holiness are used in the world especially by people of other religions describing places and people such as the Dalai Lama and the pope, the head of the Catholic Church. Do those who confess to be believers into the Lord Jesus Christ understand the meaning of holy, sanctify, holiness and sanctification as translated in most English Bibles? We often hear of the saying, We are sinners saved by the grace of the God by so-called Christians. This statement is not the truth. The...
